

BGSU String Quartet at Terra Sunday

New Terra chorus will also perform

News-Messenger reports

The Graduate String Quartet from Bowling Green State University's College of Musical Arts will perform Sunday as part of Terra Community College's Music on Sunday series.

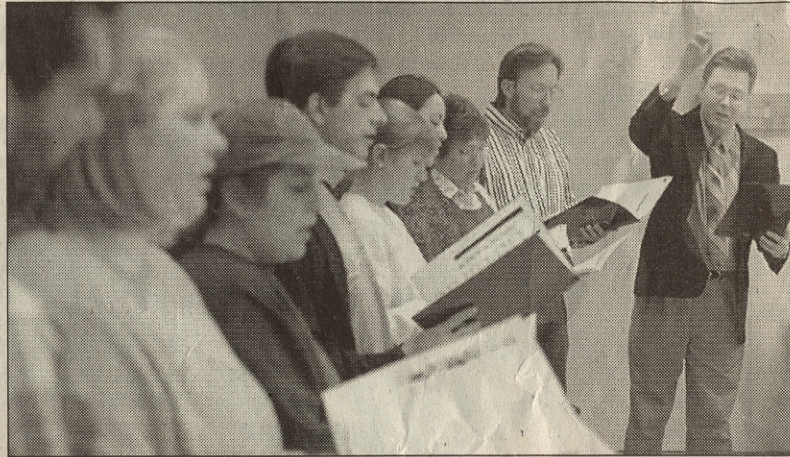

The newly formed Terra Community Chorus will also perform. They are under the direction of new faculty member, assistant professor of music Richard Repp.

The BGSU String Quartet will perform the Franz Joseph Hayden Quartet Franz Schubert's Quartet in A minor and George Gershwin's "Lullaby."

The Quartet is made up of graduate students and the director is Vasile Beluska, who is also teaching professor of violin at the college.

A native of Romania, Beluska is a graduate of the Liceul de Muzica and Conservatorul de Muzica in Cluj, Romania, as well as Southern Methodist University. He is currently first violinist of the Chautauqua Faculty String Quartet, as well as professor of violin at the Chautauqua Institution.
